An easy way to understand and remember the different fire classes is by associating a word for each class of fire.

A
 Ordinary Combustibles
A-Ashes
 Any material that produces ashes when it burns.
 Examples: wood, cloth, and paper.

B
 Flammable Liquids
B-Boils
 These are liquids, grease and flammable gases.
 Examples: gasoline and grease

C
 Electrical Equipment
C-Current
 These are fires caused by energized electrical equipment.

D
 Combustible Metals
D-Dents
 Combustible metals that change shape when ignited
 Examples: magnesium & sodium

K-Kitchen
 Cooking media fires involving combustible vegetable or animal non saturated cooking fats.

REMEMBER
 If you must use a fire extinguisher, use one that is rated for that particular class of fire. The most common fire extinguisher is ABC because it can be used for all three classes of fires.
